BACKGROUND TO THE SALARY SURVEY

Our Salary and Market Survey was originally created in 2002. The principal aim of which was to be able to capture a true picture of the salary ranges and market opinions of those corporate treasury. What sets this survey apart from the other more generalist surveys out there, is the scope of the data gathered, the breadth of participants involved, and the accuracy of the data provided.

SCOPE OF DATA

This survey asks participants to answer a series of questions focusing on their experience, backgrounds, and current positions, as well their personal feelings regarding job satisfaction, overall fulfilment, and financial reward. The survey delves into the views and opinions of each participant at a far deeper level than any other survey of its kind, the result of which, is a truly unique insight into the behaviours and beliefs of the treasury community.

BREADTH OF PARTICIPANTS

The strength of this survey is driven in part by the range of respondents involved, both in terms of level and geographic location. From a level perspective, every single position has been accounted for from Treasury Analyst up to Global Treasurer / Treasury Director, as well as the more niche functions of Treasury Accountant, Treasury Consultant and Regional / International Treasurer. In terms of geography, all key continents have been covered, from Europe, North America, and Canada, through to Asia, Australia, and Africa. This has provided a detailed cross-section of the treasury population and an unrivalled understanding of the industry globally.

ACCURACY OF DATA

The accuracy of the data in our survey is of the utmost importance to ensure that the results are reliable and trustworthy. To ensure the authenticity of the data, every participant has been thoroughly vetted and any anomalies or discrepancies have been addressed.

Furthermore, the data is based solely on information provided by actual treasury professionals, rather than assumptions or speculation from external sources.

This results in a survey that accurately reflects the true market conditions and provides valuable insights to the treasury community.

KEY INSIGHTS FROM OUR JULY 2025 TREASURY SALARY SURVEY

Six months ago, we released our first 2025 six-monthly Salary Snapshot with just over 1,300 participants. Fast forward to July and we have grown to more than 1,600 treasury professionals worldwide, which is a 25% uplift in responses in half a year.

Not just bigger but better balanced too. North America's participation alone jumped over 30%, giving us richer insight at every level from Treasury Analyst to Global Treasurer.

This scale-up has not shifted the bell curve much. If anything, it has given us more confidence our January numbers were spot on. What it has done is sharpen the regional picture and uncover some important trends.

The Rise of Interim and Consultant Roles

One emerging story is the growing demand for flexible expertise. In uncertain markets, many employers are choosing high impact consultants over permanent hires. This is most visible at Consultant and Senior Consultant level, where we have seen both higher participation and higher pay. For some companies, it is not about avoiding hiring altogether, it is about getting the skills they need without committing to headcount.

Bonuses as Golden Handcuffs

Bonuses remain a major part of the package, but the patterns are inconsistent. In North America, senior roles like Group and Global Treasurer often command bonuses of 30% to 50%, and sometimes more.

In the UK and Europe, the picture is far more mixed. Some professionals are seeing big increases, others facing deep cuts. Increasingly, bonuses are being used as retention tools to lock people in rather than pure performance rewards.

Early Career Salaries Flattening the Curve

On paper, average UK Treasury Analyst salaries dropped by around 4%. The reality is that we simply have more early career professionals in the sample this time, which naturally pulls the average down. The ranges have not really changed, but it is a reminder that hiring at "average" rates will not get you top tier talent.

Hybrid Holds the Line

Over 60% of treasury professionals are still in hybrid arrangements, virtually unchanged since January. Fully remote is down slightly, but the “you must come back” headlines are not being matched by actual movement in our data. Flexibility remains non-negotiable for most professionals.

Career Progression Still the Number One Deal-breaker

Across all regions, lack of career progression remains the top reason people move on. It has been for years, and July’s results prove nothing has changed. Salary is further down the list when it comes to job moves, and for happiness, it is even less important.

What Really Drives Happiness

The July data once again dismantles the myth that salary is the key to job satisfaction. Across the UK, Europe and North America, the top happiness drivers are autonomy, good colleagues, and interesting work. When people are unhappy, it is more often due to poor leadership or blocked career paths than a small pay packet.

FINAL WORDS

A huge thank you to the 1,600+ treasury professionals who took part in our July survey. Your input gives us a true, unfiltered view of the market - no inflated guesses, no agency spin - just real data from the people actually doing the job. We are aiming for 2,000 responses in future surveys, which will let us go even deeper.

Imagine being able to compare East Coast versus West Coast pay in the US, or drill into city-by-city breakdowns in the UK.

For now, the July results give the clearest snapshot yet of how treasury professionals are paid, what keeps them happy, and why they choose to move on.

Please share the survey with your treasury network. The more voices we have, the stronger and more valuable the insights for the profession.

Many thanks from me, Mike Richards, CEO of The Treasury Recruitment Company, I appreciate it!
